

Writing Composition (and Presentation)
	Nursery (Literacy)	Reception (Literacy)	Year 1	Year 2	Year 3	Year 4	Year 5	Year 6
Register	I can make marks and early writing that communicate meaning. I can choose to make marks and write for different purposes. I can begin to understand that writing can be used for different purposes, such as making a list, adding a label or recording an idea.	I can write to communicate meaning to another person. I can write simple texts for different purposes, including to tell, describe and inform. I can think about what I want to communicate before I begin writing. I can begin to recognise that my writing is intended to be read by someone else.	I can write sentences and short texts for a clear purpose. I can write to entertain and inform. I can recognise that my writing is intended for a reader. I can develop confidence and stamina when writing.	I can write for a range of purposes, including narratives, real events, poetry and informative texts. I can consider what I want to communicate and who will read my writing. I can begin to make choices that are appropriate to the purpose of my writing. I can develop positive attitudes towards and increasing stamina for writing.	I can write for a range of audiences and purposes. I can discuss writing similar to that which I am planning in order to learn from its structure, vocabulary and grammar. I can begin to make deliberate choices about vocabulary and language according to audience and purpose. I can plan, draft, evaluate and edit my writing.	I can write for an increasingly wide range of audiences and purposes. I can use examples of effective writing to inform my choices about structure, vocabulary and grammar. I can adapt my vocabulary, language and features of writing according to audience and purpose. I can independently plan, draft,	I can identify the audience and purpose for my writing and select an appropriate form. I can use similar writing as models to make informed choices about structure, vocabulary, grammar and style. I can adapt my writing style and level of formality according to audience and purpose. I can make deliberate choices to achieve	I can confidently identify the audience and purpose for my writing and select the most appropriate form. I can make conscious choices about structure, vocabulary, grammar and style to achieve particular effects. I can confidently adapt register and levels of formality according to audience, purpose and context. I can draw on my reading and other models while evaluate and edit my writing.	particular effects on the reader. I can independently plan, draft, evaluate and edit my writing.	developing my own authorial voice. I can independently plan, draft, evaluate, edit and refine my writing.

Structure of the text and text type	I can talk about my ideas and experiences before making marks or writing. I can talk about stories, rhymes and songs and recall key events. I can use talk and play to create and develop characters, settings and events. I can use new vocabulary when talking about my ideas.	I can articulate my ideas before writing. I can orally compose a simple sentence before writing it. I can talk about and retell familiar stories, recalling key events, characters and settings. I can innovate familiar stories by changing an element, such as a character, setting or event. I can use newly learned vocabulary when developing and explaining my ideas.	I can say out loud what I am going to write about. I can compose and rehearse a sentence orally before writing it. I can talk about and collect ideas and vocabulary before writing. I can sequence my ideas before writing a short text.	I can plan or say out loud what I am going to write about. I can develop and organise my ideas before writing. I can encapsulate what I want to say, sentence by sentence. I can collect and use appropriate vocabulary for my writing.	I can discuss and record ideas before writing. I can identify key features of texts similar to the one I am planning to write. I can compose and rehearse sentences orally, including dialogue. I can develop and organise ideas using increasingly varied vocabulary and sentence structures. I can select ideas that are relevant to the purpose of my writing.	I can discuss, develop and organise ideas before writing. I can draw on the structure, vocabulary and features of texts similar to the one I am planning. I can compose and rehearse increasingly sophisticated sentences orally, including dialogue. I can select and organise relevant ideas according to the purpose of my writing. I can adapt my initial ideas as my writing develops.	I can identify the audience and purpose for my writing and select the appropriate form. I can use similar writing as models when planning my own. I can note and develop initial ideas, drawing on reading and research where necessary. I can select and organise ideas to support the purpose and intended effect of my writing. When writing narratives, I can draw on how authors develop	I can independently select an appropriate form, structure and approach according to audience and purpose. I can draw on reading, research and other models to generate and develop ideas. I can select, organise and develop ideas to create coherent and cohesive texts. I can make deliberate decisions about the order, emphasis and development of ideas to achieve a characters, settings and atmosphere in texts I have read, heard or seen performed.	particular effect on the reader. When writing narratives, I can draw on and adapt techniques used by authors to develop characters, settings, atmosphere and plot. I can adapt my planning as my writing develops.

Oral language and vocabulary	I can talk about stories, experiences and ideas with others. I can learn and use new vocabulary through conversations, stories and play. I can use talk to imagine and recreate characters, events and experiences. I can express my ideas so that others can understand them.	I can engage in conversations about stories and use new vocabulary when discussing them. I can use new vocabulary when explaining and developing my ideas. I can use talk to develop characters, settings and events through storytelling and role play. I can express my ideas in	I can talk about my ideas before writing. I can use newly learned vocabulary when discussing and developing my ideas. I can rehearse sentences aloud before writing them. I can listen to and respond to suggestions about my ideas.	I can discuss and develop my ideas with others before writing. I can use increasingly precise vocabulary when explaining my ideas. I can orally rehearse sentences and make changes before writing them. I can listen to others' ideas and use discussion to	I can discuss and develop ideas using increasingly varied and precise vocabulary. I can use oral rehearsal to explore different ways of constructing sentences. I can begin to select language according to the purpose of my writing. I can begin to use language devices appropriate to purpose, such as	I can use discussion and oral rehearsal to develop and refine ideas before and during writing. I can select increasingly precise vocabulary to communicate meaning effectively. I can choose language and language devices according to the purpose and intended effect of my writing.	I can use discussion and oral rehearsal to explore, develop and refine ideas. I can select vocabulary and language deliberately to suit audience and purpose. I can explore alternative vocabulary and sentence constructions and consider their effect on the reader.	I can use discussion and oral rehearsal independently to develop, challenge and refine ideas. I can select precise vocabulary and grammatical structures to communicate meaning and achieve deliberate effects. I can explain how choices of vocabulary, grammar and language can increasingly complete and well-structured sentences. I can adapt what I say in response to the needs of the listener.		develop my own writing.	exaggeration when persuading.	I can explain how changing vocabulary or sentence construction can alter meaning or effect.	I can distinguish between features of spoken and written language and use them appropriately. I can use discussion and feedback to refine my writing choices.	change or enhance meaning. I can distinguish between spoken and written language and make deliberate choices about register and formality. I can respond critically to discussion and feedback, deciding how this should inform my writing.

Structure	I can begin to put ideas and events in an order when talking about them. I can use talk, pictures and marks to represent a simple sequence of events or ideas.	I can talk about events and ideas in a simple sequence. I can sequence ideas before writing, for example by using pictures, talk or oral rehearsal. I can begin to write simple sentences in an order that makes sense.	I can sequence sentences to communicate ideas in a logical order. I can order events in simple narratives. I can organise simple non-fiction writing around a clear topic.	I can record ideas, key words and new vocabulary before writing. I can organise related ideas in a logical order. I can sequence events and information clearly for the reader. I can begin to group related sentences together.	I can organise related ideas into paragraphs around a theme. I can sequence paragraphs and ideas logically for the reader. I can use simple organisational devices, such as headings and subheadings, in non-fiction writing. I can organise narratives so that	I can organise ideas into paragraphs around a theme. I can organise paragraphs in a logical sequence to support the overall structure of a text. I can use organisational devices, including headings and subheadings, to guide the reader.	I can organise ideas into paragraphs that support the overall structure and purpose of a text. I can develop cohesion within and across paragraphs by making connections between ideas. I can use organisational and	I can organise and develop ideas across paragraphs to create a coherent and cohesive whole text. I can make deliberate decisions about paragraphing to support meaning, emphasis and the development of ideas. I can use cohesive devices within events develop in a clear and coherent sequence.	I can organise narratives effectively, considering how events, settings and characters develop across the text.	presentational devices, such as headings, subheadings, bullet points and underlining, to structure a text and guide the reader. I can organise narratives deliberately to control the development of characters, settings, atmosphere and events.	and across paragraphs to guide the reader and clarify relationships between ideas. I can select and use organisational and presentational devices, such as headings, subheadings, columns, bullet points and tables, according to the purpose of the text. I can manipulate the structure of a narrative or non-fiction text deliberately to achieve a particular effect on the reader.

Writing Process	I can use marks, symbols and some recognisable letters to communicate meaning. I can give meaning to the	I can think of and say a simple sentence before writing it. I can write simple phrases and sentences that can be read by others.	I can compose and write sentences to communicate my ideas. I can sequence sentences to form short narratives.	I can develop and sustain ideas across a longer piece of writing. I can write narratives about personal experiences and those of others,	I can develop settings, characters and plot in narrative writing. I can sustain and develop ideas across a complete piece of writing.	I can develop settings, characters and plot across a range of narratives. I can develop ideas and information in	I can select appropriate vocabulary and grammatical structures to develop meaning and achieve particular effects. I can develop settings,	I can independently sustain and develop ideas across extended pieces of writing. I can select and manipulate vocabulary and grammatical marks and writing I create. I can use some of my print and letter knowledge in my early writing. I can write some or all of my name. I can talk about what I have written or represented through my marks.	I can use my developing phonics knowledge when writing words and sentences. I can write short sentences using words with known sound-letter correspondences. I can re-read what I have written to check that it communicates what I intended.	I can write short non-fiction texts for a clear purpose. I can begin to write simple poetry using models I have read and heard. I can sustain my ideas across a short piece of writing.	both real and fictional. I can write about real events clearly and coherently. I can write non-fiction texts for different purposes. I can write poetry inspired by poems I have read and heard. I can make choices about vocabulary and sentence construction as I write.	I can use vocabulary and sentence structures that are appropriate to the purpose of my writing. I can develop information and ideas clearly in non-fiction writing. I can write poetry inspired by poems I have read, experimenting with appropriate poetic devices.	sufficient detail for the reader. I can make increasingly deliberate choices about vocabulary, grammar and sentence structure as I write. I can maintain the purpose and style of my writing across a complete text. I can write poetry using a range of poetic devices for deliberate effect.	characters and atmosphere in narratives. I can integrate dialogue into narratives to convey character and advance the action. I can develop and sustain ideas across longer pieces of writing. I can summarise longer passages while retaining the key information and meaning. I can write poetry using figurative language and other poetic devices for deliberate effect.	structures to achieve precise meanings and deliberate effects. I can develop settings, characters and atmosphere convincingly in narratives. I can integrate dialogue effectively to convey character and advance the action. I can control the pace and development of a narrative according to the intended effect. I can develop and elaborate ideas appropriately in non-fiction writing while maintaining clarity and focus. I can write poetry using figurative language and a range of poetic devices deliberately and effectively.

--	---	--	--	---	---	--	---	--

Editing	I can talk about the marks and writing I have made. I can return to my marks or writing and add something to communicate more meaning. I can make changes to my early writing with adult support.	I can re-read what I have written to check that it makes sense. I can notice when something I have written does not match what I intended to say. I can make simple changes or additions to improve my writing. I can check my writing with adult support.	I can re-read my writing to check that it makes sense. I can make simple changes or additions to improve my writing. I can check my writing for the Fundamental Skills I have been taught. I can make corrections when I notice an error.	I can re-read my writing to check that it makes sense. I can make simple additions, revisions and corrections to my writing. I can check that verbs indicating time are used correctly and consistently, including verbs in the continuous form. I can proofread for errors in spelling, grammar and punctuation. I can check and correct the Fundamental Skills expected in my writing.	I can re-read my writing and identify where meaning could be clearer. I can propose changes to grammar and vocabulary to improve my writing. I can check that pronouns are used accurately and consistently. I can proofread for spelling and punctuation errors. I can check and correct the Fundamental Skills expected in my writing.	I can re-read my writing critically and identify where it could be improved. I can propose changes to grammar and vocabulary to improve consistency, clarity and effect. I can check that nouns and pronouns are used accurately to support cohesion and avoid unnecessary repetition. I can proofread for spelling, grammar and punctuation errors. I can check and correct the Fundamental Skills expected in my writing.	I can make changes to vocabulary, grammar and punctuation to enhance effects and clarify meaning. I can check that tense is used consistently and correctly throughout a piece of writing. I can check subject–verb agreement when using singular and plural forms. I can distinguish between the language of speech and writing and edit my writing to maintain an appropriate register. I can proofread for spelling, grammar and punctuation errors.	I can independently and critically re-read my writing to evaluate its clarity, accuracy and effect. I can make precise changes to vocabulary, grammar, punctuation and sentence structure to clarify meaning and enhance effect. I can edit my writing to maintain or deliberately change register and levels of formality according to audience and purpose. I can check cohesion within and across paragraphs and make changes where relationships

							I can check and correct the Fundamental Skills expected in my writing.	between ideas are unclear. I can proofread independently for spelling, grammar and punctuation errors. I can use dictionaries and other appropriate resources to check the spelling and meaning of uncommon or ambitious vocabulary. I can independently check and correct the Fundamental Skills expected in my writing.
Evaluating	I can talk about the marks and writing I have created. I can explain what my marks or writing mean. I can talk about something I like in my own or someone else's work.	I can talk about my writing and explain what I wanted to communicate. I can listen to and talk about writing with an adult or other children. I can identify something I like about my writing.	I can discuss what I have written with my teacher or other pupils. I can identify something that works well in my writing. I can listen to feedback and suggest a simple improvement.	I can evaluate my writing with my teacher and other pupils. I can identify strengths in my writing and suggest improvements. I can consider whether my writing achieves	I can assess the effectiveness of my own and others' writing and suggest improvements. I can explain why particular aspects of a piece of writing are effective.	I can assess the effectiveness of my own and others' writing, identifying strengths and areas for improvement. I can evaluate how effectively vocabulary, grammar and structure support	I can assess the effectiveness of my own and others' writing. I can evaluate how successfully my writing meets its intended purpose and the needs of its audience.	I can critically evaluate the effectiveness of my own and others' writing. I can evaluate how successfully a piece of writing meets its intended audience and purpose.

		I can begin to suggest something I could add or change. I can read my writing aloud to others.	I can read my writing aloud clearly enough to be heard by my peers and teacher.	its intended purpose. I can listen to feedback and use it to identify ways to improve my writing. I can read my writing aloud with appropriate intonation to make the meaning clear.	I can consider how successfully my writing meets its purpose. I can use feedback from others to help evaluate and improve my writing. I can read my writing aloud using appropriate intonation and controlling tone and volume so that the meaning is clear.	the purpose of a piece of writing. I can consider the effect of my writing on the reader. I can explain and justify improvements I would make to my writing. I can read my writing aloud using appropriate intonation, tone and volume to communicate meaning and effect.	I can evaluate the effect of choices in vocabulary, grammar, structure and style. I can use feedback from others to inform decisions about how my writing could be improved. I can explain and justify changes that would improve the effectiveness of my writing. I can perform my own compositions using appropriate intonation, volume and movement so that meaning and effect are clear.	I can evaluate the effect of choices in vocabulary, grammar, structure, register and levels of formality. I can identify and explain how particular choices influence the reader. I can use feedback critically, deciding which suggestions will improve my writing and explaining my decisions. I can justify changes and refinements by explaining how they improve meaning, clarity or effect. I can confidently perform my own compositions, adapting intonation, volume and expression to communicate meaning and effect.
--	--	--	--	---	---	---	--	---

Transcription and SPaG
	Nursery (Literacy)	Reception (Literacy)	Year 1	Year 2	Year 3	Year 4	Year 5	Year 6
Terminology	Letter Word Writing Sound	Letter Capital letter Word Sentence Full stop	Letter Capital letter Word Singular Plural Sentence Punctuation Full stop Question mark Exclamation mark	Noun Noun phrase Statement Question Exclamation Command Compound Suffix Adjective Adverb Verb Tense (past, present) Apostrophe Comma	Preposition Conjunction Co-ordinating conjunction Co-ordination Word family Prefix Clause Subordinate clause Paragraph Direct speech Consonant Consonant letter Vowel Vowel letter Inverted commas (speech marks)	Determiner Pronoun Possessive pronoun Adverbial	Modal verb Relative pronoun Relative clause Subordinating conjunction Subordination Parenthesis Bracket Dash Cohesion Ambiguity	Subject Object Active Passive Synonym Antonym Ellipsis Hyphen Colon Semi-colon Bullet point Register Formal Informal
Handwriting and Presentation	I can develop a comfortable and effective pencil grip. I can develop control when making marks using a range of writing tools. I can make a range of marks, including lines,	I can hold a pencil effectively in preparation for fluent writing, using the tripod grip in almost all cases. I can form recognisable lower-case and capital letters, most of which are correctly formed.	I can sit correctly at a table and hold a pencil comfortably and correctly. I can form lower-case letters in the correct direction, starting and finishing in the correct place.	I can form lower-case letters of the correct size relative to one another. I can write capital letters and digits of the correct size, orientation and relationship to one another and to lower-case letters.	I can use the diagonal and horizontal strokes needed to join letters. I can understand which letters, when adjacent to one another, are best left unjoined. I can increase the legibility, consistency and	I can use joined handwriting consistently. I can write legibly and fluently using a consistent handwriting style. I can ensure that downstrokes are parallel and equidistant.	I can write legibly, fluently and with increasing speed. I can maintain a consistent, joined handwriting style across extended pieces of writing. I can choose which shape of a letter to use when given choices.	I can write legibly, fluently and efficiently at speed. I can maintain a consistent and fluent joined handwriting style across a range of writing. I can make appropriate circles and shapes, as I develop the movements needed for writing. I can begin to form some recognisable letters, including letters from my name.	I can form letters in the correct direction, starting and finishing in the correct place with increasing consistency. I can develop the foundations of a handwriting style that is accurate and efficient. I can use appropriate spacing between words with increasing consistency.	I can form capital letters correctly. I can form the digits 0–9 correctly. I can understand which letters belong to handwriting families and form them consistently. I can position letters correctly on the line. I can use clear spaces between words.	I can use spacing between words that reflects the size of my letters. I can position letters consistently on the line. I can begin to use the diagonal and horizontal strokes needed to join letters. I can understand which letters are best left unjoined.	quality of my handwriting. I can ensure that downstrokes are parallel and equidistant. I can space lines of writing sufficiently so that ascenders and descenders do not touch. I can write with increasing fluency while maintaining accurate letter formation.	I can ensure that lines of writing are sufficiently spaced so that ascenders and descenders do not touch. I can maintain consistent letter size, orientation and spacing when writing at increasing speed.	I can decide whether or not to join specific letters. I can choose the writing implement that is best suited to a task. I can maintain the quality and presentation of my handwriting when writing at speed.	choices about letter formation and whether particular letters should be joined. I can select the writing implement and style of presentation most appropriate to the task. I can maintain high standards of legibility and presentation when writing independently and at speed.

Sentence structure and grammar	I can use words and phrases to communicate my ideas. I can begin to use sentences when talking about my experiences, ideas and stories. I can begin to use new vocabulary in my spoken language.	I can orally compose and say a simple sentence. I can write simple sentences that communicate a complete idea. I can use newly learned vocabulary in my spoken and written sentences.	I can combine words to make sentences. I can join words and clauses using and. I can begin to join clauses using because. I can identify and use adjectives to add detail. I can begin to identify and use	I can use sentences with different forms: statement, question, exclamation and command. I can use co-ordinating conjunctions, including and, or, but. I can use subordinating conjunctions,	I can use simple and compound sentences appropriately in my writing. I can extend sentences using a wider range of conjunctions, including when, if, because and although. I can express time, place and cause using conjunctions,	I can confidently use simple and compound sentences and begin to vary sentence structures for purpose and effect. I can use a wider range of conjunctions to create sentences containing more than one clause.	I can use simple, compound and complex sentence structures appropriately and vary them according to purpose and effect. I can use relative clauses beginning with who, which, where, when, whose and that, or with an omitted relative pronoun.	I can confidently select and vary simple, compound and complex sentence structures according to purpose and intended effect. I can manipulate clause and sentence structure to control emphasis, pace and meaning.

		I can begin to join ideas using conjunctions such as and and because. I can begin to use past, present and future forms when talking and writing about events.	questions and exclamations. I can use plural noun suffixes -s and -es and understand how they change meaning. I can add suffixes to verbs where the root word remains unchanged. I can use the prefix un- to change the meaning of verbs and adjectives.	including when, if, that, because. I can use the present and past tenses correctly and consistently, including the progressive form. I can use expanded noun phrases to describe and specify. I can use adjectives and adverbs to add detail and precision. I can form nouns using suffixes such as -ness and -er and by compounding words. I can form adjectives using suffixes such as -ful, -less, -er and -est. I can use -ly to turn adjectives into adverbs where appropriate.	adverbs and prepositions. I can use the present perfect form of verbs appropriately alongside the simple past. I can expand noun phrases using modifying adjectives, nouns and prepositional phrases. I can choose nouns and pronouns appropriately to support clarity and avoid unnecessary repetition. I can understand how words within a word family are related in form and meaning. I can form nouns using a range of prefixes.	I can use noun phrases expanded by modifying adjectives, nouns and prepositional phrases. I can choose nouns and pronouns appropriately to support cohesion and avoid repetition. I can use fronted adverbials to express time, place, manner and cause. I can use Standard English forms for verb inflections instead of local spoken forms, for example we were rather than we was and I did rather than I done. I can maintain consistent and appropriate tense within my writing.	I can use modal verbs and adverbs to indicate degrees of possibility. I can use expanded noun phrases to convey complicated information concisely. I can use the perfect form of verbs to show relationships of time and cause. I can use passive verbs to affect how information is presented. I can convert nouns and adjectives into verbs using suffixes such as -ate, -ise and -ify. I can use verb prefixes such as dis-, de-, mis-, over- and re-. I can distinguish between structures appropriate for spoken and written language.	I can use active and passive forms deliberately to affect how information is presented. I can use the perfect form of verbs accurately to mark relationships of time and cause. I can use modal verbs and adverbs precisely to express degrees of possibility and certainty. I can recognise and use subjunctive forms where appropriate. I can use expanded noun phrases and prepositional phrases precisely to convey complex information. I can maintain consistent and appropriate tense throughout a piece of writing.
--	--	--	--	---	---	--	--	---

								I can use Standard English consistently. I can select grammatical structures appropriate to formal and informal speech and writing. I can make deliberate grammatical choices to establish and maintain an appropriate register.
Transcription and SPAG - Punctuation	I can begin to recognise that writing contains spaces and punctuation. I can notice capital letters and full stops when sharing books and looking at print.	I can use spaces between words with increasing consistency. I can begin to use a capital letter at the beginning of a sentence. I can begin to use a full stop at the end of a sentence. I can recognise question marks and exclamation marks in shared reading and writing.	I can use capital letters to begin sentences. I can use capital letters for names of people and places, days of the week and the personal pronoun I. I can use full stops to mark the end of sentences. I can use question marks to mark questions. I can use exclamation	I can consistently use capital letters and full stops to demarcate sentences. I can use question marks and exclamation marks appropriately. I can use commas to separate items in a list. I can use apostrophes to show where letters are missing in contractions.	I can use capital letters, full stops, question marks and exclamation marks accurately. I can use commas accurately to separate items in a list. I can use apostrophes for contractions and singular possession. I can use inverted commas to indicate direct speech.	I can use apostrophes accurately for contractions and possession. I can use commas after fronted adverbials. I can use inverted commas and other punctuation to indicate direct speech, including a comma after the reporting clause and appropriate end punctuation	I can use commas after fronted adverbials accurately. I can use commas to clarify meaning and avoid ambiguity. I can use brackets, dashes or commas to indicate parenthesis. I can use apostrophes accurately for contractions and possession.	I can use commas to separate items in a list, after fronted adverbials, to clarify meaning, to mark clauses where appropriate and to indicate parenthesis. I can use brackets and dashes to indicate parenthesis. I can use semi-colons to separate closely related marks appropriately. I can leave clear spaces between words.	I can use apostrophes to mark singular possession.	I can begin to use punctuation associated with direct speech. I can use apostrophes to indicate possession, including with plural nouns.	within inverted commas. I can use punctuation accurately to demarcate sentences. I can proofread my writing for punctuation errors.	I can use inverted commas and all associated punctuation accurately when writing direct speech. I can use punctuation increasingly deliberately to clarify meaning and support the reader.	independent clauses. I can use colons to separate independent clauses when the second explains or expands on the first. I can use dashes to mark boundaries between independent clauses where appropriate. I can use a colon to introduce a list. I can use semi-colons to separate items within a complex list. I can punctuate bullet points consistently. I can use hyphens to avoid ambiguity. I can use ellipses appropriately to indicate omitted words, a pause or an unfinished thought. I can make deliberate punctuation choices to clarify meaning and achieve particular effects.

--	--	--	--	---	--	--	--	---

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	---

Spellings - Objectives

Phonics and spelling

In Nursery, Reception and KS1, pupils apply the phonics knowledge taught through the school's Little Wandle Letters and Sounds Revised programme when spelling and writing. The detailed progression in grapheme–phoneme correspondences, tricky words and phonics knowledge is set out in the school's Phonics and Early Reading Progression Map.

	Nursery (Literacy)	Reception (Literacy)	Year 1	Year 2	Year 3	Year 4	Year 5	Year 6
Spelling Knowledge and Application	I can hear and identify some sounds in words. I can begin to recognise that sounds can be represented by letters. I can use some of my developing sound and letter knowledge when making marks and attempting to write words. I can recognise and begin to write some familiar words, including my name.	I can segment spoken words into sounds to support spelling. I can use my developing phonics knowledge to make phonetically plausible attempts at spelling words. I can write words using known grapheme–phone me correspondences. I can spell an increasing number of taught tricky words correctly. I can use my phonics knowledge when writing simple	I can segment spoken words into phonemes and represent these using appropriate graphemes. I can apply the grapheme–phone me correspondences I have been taught when spelling. I can spell words containing the phonemes and graphemes taught so far. I can spell taught common exception words. I can use my knowledge of word endings and	I can apply my phonics knowledge accurately when spelling familiar and unfamiliar words. I can distinguish between alternative graphemes for phonemes and make increasingly accurate choices when spelling. I can spell taught common exception words accurately. I can use my knowledge of prefixes, suffixes and word endings to support spelling.	I can apply my knowledge of phonics, spelling patterns and word structure when spelling unfamiliar words. I can use my knowledge of prefixes, suffixes and root words to understand and spell related words. I can recognise and apply taught spelling rules and conventions. I can spell the words I have been taught from the relevant statutory word list. I can identify and correct spelling	I can apply my knowledge of spelling patterns, morphology and word origins to spell increasingly complex words. I can use prefixes, suffixes and root words to support accurate spelling and understand relationships between words. I can recognise and apply taught spelling rules and conventions, including where exceptions occur. I can spell an increasing number of words from the relevant statutory word list accurately.	I can apply my knowledge of spelling patterns, morphology and etymology to spell increasingly complex and unfamiliar words. I can use my understanding of prefixes, suffixes and root words to work out and check spellings. I can recognise relationships between meaning, word structure and spelling. I can spell an increasing number of words from the relevant statutory word list accurately.	I can independently apply my knowledge of phonics, morphology, etymology and spelling conventions to spell unfamiliar and increasingly sophisticated words. I can use knowledge of prefixes, suffixes, root words and word families to work out and check spellings. I can recognise when the spelling of a word does not follow an expected pattern and use appropriate phrases and sentences. I can re-read my writing and begin to notice when a spelling does not look or sound right.	taught suffixes when spelling. I can use my phonics knowledge to make plausible attempts at unfamiliar words. I can re-read my writing and identify some spelling errors.	I can use my knowledge of word structure to spell longer and more complex words. I can identify and correct some spelling errors when proofreading my writing. I can use simple strategies to check an uncertain spelling.	errors when proofreading. I can use a dictionary to check the spelling of a word. I can use my knowledge of word families to support accurate spelling.	I can use a dictionary efficiently to check uncertain spellings. I can identify patterns in my own spelling errors and use these to improve my spelling. I can proofread and correct spelling errors independently.	I can use dictionaries and other appropriate resources independently to check uncertain spellings. I can use knowledge of word origins and relationships between words to help me remember difficult spellings. I can proofread systematically and correct spelling errors in my writing.	strategies to check it. I can accurately spell the words I have been taught from the relevant statutory word list. I can independently select and use appropriate resources to check and refine my spelling. I can identify patterns in my own spelling errors and take responsibility for correcting them. I can proofread independently and maintain a high level of spelling accuracy across extended writing.

Spelling Rules and Conventions	I can notice sounds at the beginning of words.	I can use the grapheme–phone me correspondences I have been	I can spell words using the grapheme–phone me correspondences	I can spell words containing the spelling patterns and alternative graphemes I have been taught.	I can use a wider range of prefixes, including un-, dis-, mis-, in-, il-, im-, ir- and re-.	I can use prefixes including sub-, inter-, super-, anti- and auto-.	I can spell words ending in -able, -ably, -ible and -ibly and understand how the root word can	I can confidently apply the spelling rules and conventions taught throughout KS2.

	I can begin to hear sounds within words. I can notice similarities and differences between words and sounds. I can begin to recognise that letters represent sounds.	taught when spelling words. I can spell words by identifying the sounds and writing a grapheme for each sound. I can spell an increasing number of taught tricky words. I can begin to notice common patterns in words I read and write.	I have been taught. I can spell common exception words that I have been taught. I can use -s and -es to form regular plurals. I can use -s and -es as verb endings where appropriate. I can use the prefix un- and understand how it changes the meaning of a word. I can use -ing, -ed, -er and -est where the root word does not need to change. I can spell the days of the week. I can use my knowledge of syllables to help me spell longer words.	I can spell common exception words that I have been taught. I can use -es when adding an ending to words ending in -y where the y changes to i. I can add -ed, -ing, -er and -est, making appropriate changes to the root word where necessary. I can use suffixes including -ment, -ness, -ful, -less and -ly. I can form nouns using suffixes such as -ness and -er and by compounding. I can spell contracted forms and understand that the apostrophe represents omitted letters.	I can add suffixes beginning with vowel letters to words of more than one syllable, making changes to the root word where necessary. I can use the suffix -ly, including where the root word needs to change. I can spell words with endings that sound like /ʒə/ or /tʃə/. I can spell words with endings including -sion and -ous where taught. I can spell words containing the /k/ sound written ch where taught. I can spell words containing the /ʃ/ sound written ch where taught. I can distinguish between and	I can understand how adding prefixes can change the meaning of a root word. I can spell words with endings including -tion, -sion, -ssion and -cian. I can spell words ending in -sure and -ture. I can spell words containing the /g/ sound written gue and the /k/ sound written que. I can spell words containing the /s/ sound written sc. I can use the possessive apostrophe accurately with irregular plural nouns. I can distinguish between and spell an increasingly wide range of homophones and	help me choose the correct ending. I can spell words ending in -ant, -ance/-ancy, -ent and -ence/-ency. I can use suffixes beginning with vowel letters where they require changes to the root word. I can spell words containing the letter string ough and recognise that it can represent different sounds. I can spell words containing silent letters. I can distinguish between and spell increasingly challenging homophones and other words that are often confused. I can use hyphens where they are	I can use my knowledge of morphology to spell unfamiliar words by identifying roots, prefixes and suffixes. I can use my knowledge of word origins and etymology to explain and remember difficult spellings. I can distinguish accurately between homophones and other commonly confused words, using meaning and context to select the correct spelling. I can spell words containing silent letters and other less predictable letter patterns. I can use hyphens accurately where they are required to avoid ambiguity.
--	---	--	---	---	--	--	--	--

				I can distinguish between and spell taught homophones and near-homophone s. I can use the possessive apostrophe with singular nouns.	spell taught homophones. I can use the possessive apostrophe accurately with regular plural nouns.	near-homophone s. I can recognise and apply spelling patterns while identifying words that are exceptions to them.	needed to avoid ambiguity. I can understand that the origin and structure of a word can help explain its spelling.	I can recognise exceptions to spelling rules and use appropriate strategies to learn and check them. I can apply taught spelling conventions accurately and independently in extended writing.
Statutory/Key Word Spellings	I can recognise my own name and other words that are important and familiar to me. I can begin to write my own name. I can begin to write some familiar words using the sound and letter knowledge I have been taught.	I can spell an increasing number of taught tricky words correctly. I can write familiar words with increasing accuracy. I can apply my phonics knowledge when attempting words I have not yet learned to spell. I can recognise when a familiar word I have written may not be spelled correctly.	I can spell the common exception words I have been taught. I can spell the days of the week. I can apply my phonics knowledge when spelling words that I have not yet learned to spell. I can increasingly use taught spellings accurately in my independent writing.	I can spell the common exception words I have been taught. I can spell an increasing range of familiar words accurately and automatically. I can distinguish between taught homophones and near-homophone s. I can apply taught spellings accurately in my independent writing.	I can spell an increasing number of words from the Year 3 and 4 statutory word list. I can spell taught homophones and commonly confused words accurately. I can apply words I have learned to spell accurately in my independent writing. I can identify words that I find difficult to spell and use appropriate	I can accurately spell the words I have been taught from the Year 3 and 4 statutory word list. I can distinguish accurately between taught homophones and commonly confused words. I can retain and apply previously taught spellings in my independent writing. I can identify gaps in my spelling knowledge and use appropriate strategies and	I can spell an increasing number of words from the Year 5 and 6 statutory word list. I can distinguish between increasingly challenging homophones and other commonly confused words. I can retain and apply previously taught spellings accurately in my independent writing. I can identify unfamiliar or uncertain	I can accurately spell the words I have been taught from the Year 5 and 6 statutory word list. I can retain and apply previously taught statutory and key word spellings accurately in my independent writing. I can distinguish accurately between homophones and other commonly confused words using meaning and context.

					strategies to learn them.	resources to address them.	spellings and use appropriate strategies and resources to check them.	I can independently identify, investigate and correct uncertain spellings. I can maintain a high level of spelling accuracy across extended independent writing.
--	--	--	--	--	---------------------------	----------------------------	---	--

Statutory and Common Exception Word Lists

The following word lists support the spelling progression outlined within this document. Pupils are explicitly taught to spell, understand and apply these words in context. The expectation is that taught spellings are increasingly retained and applied accurately in independent writing, rather than learned solely for isolated spelling activities.

In Years 1 and 2, pupils are taught the relevant common exception words alongside the school's phonics curriculum. In Years 3–4 and Years 5–6, pupils are taught the relevant statutory word lists across each two-year phase. Detailed progression in phonics and tricky words is set out separately within the school's Phonics and Early Reading Progression Map.

Years 3 and 4 Statutory Word List

accident, accidentally, actual, actually, address, answer, appear, arrive, believe, bicycle, breath, breathe, build, busy, business, calendar, caught, centre, century, certain, circle, complete, consider, continue, decide, describe, different, difficult, disappear, early, earth, eight, eighth, enough, exercise, experience, experiment, extreme, famous, favourite, February, forward, forwards, fruit, grammar, group, guard, guide, heard, heart, height, history, imagine, increase, important, interest, island, knowledge, learn, length, library, material, medicine, mention, minute, natural, naughty, notice, occasion, occasionally, often, opposite, ordinary, particular, peculiar, perhaps, popular, position, possess, possession, possible, potatoes, pressure, probably, promise, purpose, quarter, question, recent, regular, reign, remember, sentence, separate, special, straight, strange, strength, suppose, surprise, therefore, though, although, thought, through, various, weight, woman, women

Years 5 and 6 Statutory Word List

accommodate, accompany, according, achieve, aggressive, amateur, ancient, apparent, appreciate, attached, available, average, awkward, bargain, bruise, category, cemetery, committee, communicate, community, competition, conscience, conscious, controversy, convenience, correspond, criticise, curiosity, definite, desperate, determined, develop, dictionary, disastrous, embarrass, environment, equip, equipped, equipment, especially, exaggerate, excellent, existence, explanation, familiar, foreign, forty, frequently, government, guarantee, harass, hindrance, identity, immediate, immediately, individual, interfere, interrupt, language, leisure, lightning, marvellous, mischievous, muscle, necessary, neighbour, nuisance, occupy, occur, opportunity, parliament, persuade, physical, prejudice, privilege, profession, programme, pronunciation, queue, recognise, recommend, relevant, restaurant, rhyme, rhythm, sacrifice, secretary, shoulder, signature, sincere, sincerely, soldier, stomach, sufficient, suggest, symbol, system, temperature, thorough, twelfth, variety, vegetable, vehicle, yacht